PREFACE

The National Sample Survey Organisation (NSSO) has been conducting All-India surveys decennially on Debt and Investment since its 26th round (1971-72) in both rural and urban areas. These surveys generate basic quantitative information on assets, liabilities and capital expenditure in the household sector of the economy. The All-India Debt and Investment Survey (AIDIS), which was carried out as part of the 48th round of the NSSO during the period January to December 1992, was the fifth such survey conducted at the all-India level. Prior to 1971-72, two surveys viz. "All-India Rural Credit Survey" and "All-India Rural Debt and Investment Survey" had been completed in 1951-52 and in 1961-62 respectively by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) for rural areas only.

The present report is the fourth report in the series of five reports planned to be brought out on the basis of data collected in the 48th round (January to December, 1992). This report gives the estimates of households reporting capital expenditure and also of those reporting acquisition, sale or loss of some asset. It also provides estimates of amount of capital expenditure incurred by households according to various characteristics at the state and all-India level in rural and urban sectors. The report consists of three Chapters and one Appendix. Chapters one and two of the report deal with the introduction and brief note on sample design and estimation procedure respectively. Chapter three deals with summary results of the survey and their comparison with the results of the previous surveys.

The field work of the survey was done by the Field Operations Division; data processing and tabulation work were handled by the Data Processing Division and the Computer Centre respectively. The Survey Design and Research Division was responsible for designing the survey and preparing this report.

I am thankful to the members of the Working Group for their valuable guidance at various phases of the work - from designing of the schedule of enquiry to the preparation of this report. I am very much grateful to the members of the Governing Council, Heads of various Divisions of NSSO and their colleagues for their contributions in preparing the report.

HIGHLIGHTS

Data relating to capital expenditure of households during July 1, 1991- June 30, 1992 were collected in the Debt and Investment Survey during the 48th Round of the National Sample Survey. The following highlights merit attention :

Magnitude of household expenditure

Roughly two-thirds of the aggregate fixed capital expenditure of Rs. 20,632 crores as well as of gross capital expenditure of Rs. 28,836 crores incurred by all households originated from the rural households. However, about three-fourths of the total expenses of Rs. 2733 crores on normal repairs and maintenance was incurred in the rural areas alone.

Capital expenditure by occupational categories

Incidence : About 15% of the rural and 10% of the urban households incurred some expenditure towards formation of fixed capital, the corresponding proportions for incurring some gross capital expenditure being 45% and 31% respectively. The proportions were much higher for cultivator households in the rural and self-employed households in the urban areas.

Average capital expenditure : On an average, urban households spent more on capital expenditure - fixed or gross - than rural households ; rural cultivator and urban self-employed households spent relatively more than the remaining households.

Capital expenditure by asset holding classes

The proportion of households reporting some expenses on capital account, as well as average capital expenditure made by households, increased with their asset holdings in general.

The rich-poor divide was clearly manifest in terms of fixed capital expenditure incurred by households. In rural areas while 15% of the 'poorest' households viz. those owning assets of value less than Rs.10 thousand, accounted for less than 3% of such expenditure, 19% of the 'richest' ones, viz. those owning assets valued at Rs.150 thousand or more, accounted for a hefty three-fifths of such expenses. The same phenomenon was observed in urban areas, where the 'poorest' and 'richest' 24% of households contributed less than 3% and above 56% to the total expenses respectively.

Interestingly, during the 1980s reduction in disparity, in terms of capital expenditure, between the 'richest' 10% and the 'poorest' 30% of the households - in terms of their owned assets - was more spectacular in urban areas than in rural areas.

HIGHLIGHTS (contd.)

Capital expenditure by broad heads of expenditure

Both in rural and urban areas, a major portion of any type of household expenditure - fixed or gross capital expenditure or normal repairs and maintenance - related to residential plots and buildings. The other two heads of expenditure, viz. farm business and non-farm business, came next in importance in rural and urban areas respectively.

State-level variations : In certain states, however, quite significant variations from the above pattern were noticed. In rural areas of Madhya Pradesh and Karnataka, farm business was the most important broad head of expenditure whereas in urban areas of Assam, farm business accounted for as much as 18% of the fixed capital formation.

In urban areas, during the 1980s, there was a sharp rise in the share of residential plots and buildings - and a steep fall in the share of non-farm business - in the aggregate capital expenditure.

Acquisition and depletion of household assets during 1991-92

During 1991-92 while more than four-fifths of all assets sold or lost in India were from rural areas, the share of assets acquired or disposed of was only marginally higher in urban areas as compared to that in rural areas.

Occupation categories : Average values of assets acquired by cultivator households in rural areas, and self-employed ones in the urban areas, were far higher than those among the remaining households in both rural and urban areas.

Broad heads of expenditure : Among the three broad heads, farm business accounted for more than four-fifth of all sales made and three-fourth of all losses suffered by rural households. In urban areas, about one-half of the total sales was accounted by farm business whereas households incurring some expenditure on residential plots and buildings accounted for half of aggregate assets lost.

Chapter 1

Introduction

1. The Report in Perspective

1.1.1 The All-India Debt and Investment Survey (AIDIS) was carried out as part of the 48th Round of the National Sample Survey Organisation (NSSO) during January to December 1992. This was the fifth such survey conducted at the all-India level. At present, the decennially conducted AIDIS is the only nation-wide enquiry providing data on household assets, indebtedness and capital expenditure.

1.2.1 Objective: The main objective of the AIDIS is to generate reliable estimates on assets, liabilities and capital expenditure of the household sector. The survey provides the details of household liabilities required for the formulation of credit policy of financial institutions and planning for development.

1.3.1 Plan for release of results: The present report is the last in the series of five reports to be brought out on the AIDIS conducted in the NSS 48th round. In general, the estimates are provided for the country as a whole, as well as for all the states and union territories.

1.3.2 The first report (NSS Report No.419) gave the survey estimates on assets and liabilities (cash loans) of rural and urban households as on 30th June 1991.

1.3.3 The second report in the series has been brought out in two parts -- one for rural areas ( NSS Report No. 420 ) and the other for urban areas ( NSS Report No. 421 ). They covered several aspects of household indebtedness like number of households reporting cash loans and current liabilities, average amount of current liabilities and distribution of cash loans by various characteristics, such as rate of interest, duration of loan, credit agency etc.

1.3.4 The third report in the series - NSS Report No.431 - examined different aspects of the related flow variables by tabulating the number of households reporting current borrowings and repayments, amount of borrowings and repayments etc. by different variables like type of loan, terms of interest, type of security, type of mortgage etc. The next report (NSS Report No.432 ) dealt with selected aspects of household assets and liabilities for different social groups.

1.3.5 The present report - fifth and last in the series -.looks into some broad features of capital expenditure, sale and loss of physical assets by the rural and urban households during the agricultural year 1991-92.

2. Background

2.1.1 In order to study both the demand and supply sides of credit in the household sector, the Reserve Bank of India(RBI) had conducted the "All-India Rural Credit Survey" in 1951-52. Information on assets, economic activities, particulars of credit operations and the incidence of indebtedness in the rural areas were collected in this survey to assess the demand for rural credit. Further, data on the extent and mode of operations of different credit agencies were also collected with a view to examine the supply side of the credit.

2.1.2 The first Rural Credit Survey was followed up with a similar survey in 1961-62 by the RBI. The scope of the survey was extended to include capital expenditure in the household sector and other associated indicators of the rural economy. The second survey was thus called "All-India Rural Debt and Investment Survey".

2.1.3 The responsibility of conducting the third such survey was given to the National Sample Survey Organisation(NSSO). The NSSO undertook the All India Debt and Investment Survey(AIDIS), after integrating it with the Land and Livestock Holding Survey(LHS), in its 26th round survey during July 1971-September 1972. During this survey, for the first time since its inception, the scope of the Debt and Investment Survey was extended to urban areas as well. Since then, NSSO is regularly conducting AIDIS once in ten years. The fourth decennial survey on Debt and Investment was conducted in the NSS 37th round survey during the calendar year 1982. In this survey, data for AIDIS and LHS were collected from the same set of sample households.

2.1.4 The present AIDIS was also carried out along with the LHS in the NSS 48th round(1992). Although the objectives of the survey remained the same as those of the earlier surveys, some changes were made in the sampling design to suit the requirements of the AIDIS. First, an independent sample of households was selected exclusively for the AIDIS in rural areas to ensure better representation of the indebted households. Secondly, for the urban areas, although both the surveys viz. AIDIS and LHS, were conducted in a common set of households, the sample of households was selected with the specific aim of generating reliable estimates for the AIDIS.

3. Scope

3.1.1 Items of enquiry: In the present AIDIS(1992), the NSSO collected information on the assets and liabilities position of the households as on 30.6.1991. The details of all financial transactions, particularly those of cash borrowings and repayments, during the agricultural year 1991-92 (AY 91-92) were collected along with the liabilities of the households. Besides, the survey also gathered information on the amount of capital expenditure incurred by the households during the same reference period, under different heads, like residential plots, houses and buildings, farm business and non-farm business. Data on acquisition, disposal and loss of assets during this period were also collected in this survey.

3.2.1 Geographical coverage: The 48th Round was planned to cover the whole of Indian Union except

(i) Ladakh and Kargil districts of Jammu & Kashmir,

(ii) 768 interior villages of Nagaland (out of a total of 1119 villages ) located beyond 5 kms. of a bus route,

(iii) 172 villages in Andaman & Nicobar Islands (out of a total of 520 villages) which are inaccessible throughout the year. However, the survey could not be conducted in certain districts of Jammu & Kashmir viz. Anantnag, Pulwana, Srinagar, Badgam, Baramula and Kupwara, and the district of Amritsar in Punjab due to unfavourable field conditions.

4. Method of data collection

4.1.1 The survey used the interview method of data collection from a sample of randomly selected households. The field workers paid two visits to each sample household during the period of survey with a gap ranging between 4 to 8 months. Two separate and slightly different schedules of enquiry were used for the two visits.

4.2.1 Survey period: The survey period for the 48th round survey was the calendar year 1992. In order to reduce recall error, particulars relating to the entire agricultural year were collected by visiting each sample household twice during the survey period. The first visit to the sample households was made during a period of 8 months, January to August, while the second visit was made during a shorter period of 4 months-September to December. The longer period for the first visit was kept in view of the higher workload for the field staff for it compared to the second visit.

4.2.2 During the first visit to a sample household, the investigator collected information on assets owned on the date of survey as well as addition and depletion of assets during the period 1st July 1991 to the date of survey. The estimates of asset possessed by the households as on 30.6.1991 are based on these data. The survey used the same procedure for assessing the indebtedness position of the households as on 30.6.1991. The estimates of cash dues outstanding as on 30.6.91 are based on the first-visit data on dues outstanding on the date of survey and borrowings and repayments made between 1st July 1991 and the date of survey, both days included.

4.2.3 In addition, the first-visit schedule provided for collection of data on the amount and other particulars of borrowings and repayments during the first half of the AY 91-92, i.e. during 1.7.1991 to 31.12.1991. The data on capital expenditure and acquisition, disposal and loss of assets of the households during 1.7.1991 to 31.12.1991 were also collected in the first visit.

4.2.4 During the second visit to the sample households, data were collected to assess the borrowing and repayments made and loans written off during the second half of the AY 91-92, i.e., during 1.1.1992 to 30.6.1992. Similarly, data on capital expenditure and acquisition, disposal and loss of assets during 1.1.1992 to 30.6.1992 were collected in the second visit. No provision was kept for the collection of information on assets in the schedule of the second visit. Other differences between the second and first visit schedules were mostly due to the fact that information pertained to two different halves of AY 91-92 in the two visits.

5. Valuation of Physical Assets

5.1.1 The survey evaluated a physical asset acquired prior to 30th June 1991 at the current market price of such an asset in its existing condition prevailing in the locality. An asset which was disposed of during the reference period (i.e. during 1.7.1991 to the date of survey) in a manner other than by sale was also evaluated at the current market price. If an asset was disposed of by way of sale during the reference period, the sale price was considered as the value of the asset.

5.1.2 On the other hand, if a physical asset was acquired by way of purchase or construction during the reference period, the purchase price or the total expenditure incurred on construction was taken as its value. To evaluate an asset acquired through own construction, the value of labour and materials supplied from the household stock, imputed at current market price, were included in the total expenditure.

5.1.3 For evaluation of an asset 'otherwise acquired', i.e. acquired in a manner other than by purchase or construction during the reference period, the investigators used the current price of the asset in its existing condition prevailing in the locality. However, if an 'otherwise acquired' asset was sold during the reference period, the sales proceeds was taken as its value.

6. Reference Period

6.1.1 All estimates pertaining to capital expenditure, normal repairs and maintenance, amount financed from borrowings, etc., presented in this report are based on a moving reference point - from 1.7.91 to 30.6.92. These estimates are based on data collected from both the visits to sample households. The moving reference point ranged from 1.7.91 to 31.12.91 for data collected from the first visit and from 1.1.92 to 30.6.92 for those from the second one.

6.1.2 However, as in NSS Report number 419, estimates of assets provided in this report continue to refer to a fixed reference date of 30.6.1991 and are based entirely on the data collected during the first visit to the sample households. As stated in section 4, the position of assets of the sample households as on 30.6.1991 was derived from the stock data on the date of survey and the data on transactions during the intervening period.

6.1.3 As in the earlier reports in this series, the estimates of number of households given in this report are based on data with a moving reference point, from 1.1.1992 to 31.8.1992, which spans a period of eight months. These estimates, therefore, may be taken to represent the households existing as on 30.4.1992, the mid-point of the eight-month period.

7. Sample Design

7.1.1 The sample design adopted for the survey was essentially a stratified two-stage one for both rural and urban areas. The census villages and urban blocks were the first stage units (FSUs) for the rural and urban sectors respectively, while households were the second stage sampling units (SSUs) for both the sectors. The selection of villages was done with probability proportional to population (with replacement), based mainly on the 1981 census list of villages. The selection of urban blocks was done with equal probability without replacement based on Urban Frame Survey (UFS) conducted by the NSSO on an on-going basis. The details of the sample design and estimation procedure adopted for the survey are given in Chapter 2 of this report.

7.2.1 Sample size - first stage units: In all, 9052 villages were planned to be surveyed in this round. Of these, 4328 villages were allocated to the central sample which was the part surveyed mainly by the NSSO field staff. The remaining villages were allocated to the state sample, which was the part to be surveyed by the state agencies. In the urban sector, the allocations for the central and state samples were 2484 and 3076 respectively. This report is based on the estimates obtained from the central sample alone. The number of villages and urban blocks actually surveyed as the central sample were 4231 and 2419 respectively.

7.2.2 Sample size - second stage units: For the AIDIS, 9 households from every sample village and every urban block were planned to be surveyed. In the central sample, the actual number of households surveyed was 36425 in the rural sector and 20606 in the urban sector.

8. Concepts and Definitions

8.1.1 The concepts and definitions of some of the important terms used in the survey and relevant to this report are explained below :

8.2.1 Household: A household was a group of persons who normally lived together and took food from a common kitchen. However, a boarding house, a hotel or a hostel was treated as a cluster of households, where each individual boarder formed a separate household. If, however, a group of persons among them normally pooled their income for spending, they together were treated as constituting a single household. Barracks of military and paramilitary forces, orphanages and vagrant-houses were excluded from the scope of the survey.

8.2.2 Household size: The size of a household was taken to be the number of members normally residing in it. This size included temporary stay-aways but excluded temporary visitors and guests of the household.

8.3.1 Household assets: Household assets represented all that were owned by the household and had money value. These could be of the nature of pure physical assets, pure financial assets or dues receivable on loans. Physical assets included land, buildings, livestock, agricultural machinery and implements, non-farm business equipment, all transport equipment and durable household goods. Pure financial assets could be advances in cash and in kind, shares in companies and cooperative societies, banks etc., units of various mutual funds, national saving certificates and the like, contributions made towards provident fund, payment of insurance premia, deposits in companies, banks, post offices and with individuals.

8.3.2 However, the AIDIS does not include crops standing in the fields and stock of commodities held by the household in the household assets. Currency notes and coins in hand were also not considered as assets in any of the earlier surveys owing to difficulties in collecting reliable data on them. However, in the present survey, an attempt was made to collect the amount of cash in hand of the household on the date of survey. The estimates of household assets, presented in this report, include the amount of cash held by the households as on the date of survey.

8.3.3 Household durable assets: All physical assets which are used for domestic purposes, have an expected life longer than one year or more and cannot be purchased at a nominal price were defined as household durables. As an additional criterion, the low frequency of purchase of the commodity was used to identify a household durable asset. However, minor items like tins, bottles, knives etc., though lasting for a longer period, were excluded from household durable assets.

8.4.1 Cash loans: All loans taken in cash were considered as cash loans, irrespective of whether those loans were repaid or proposed to be repaid in cash or in kind. Cash loans, generally, covered borrowings at specific rate of interest for a specific period of time. However, if a loan was contracted without any interest from relatives and friends, it was considered as cash loan. Dues payable by the household owing to hire-purchase of goods was treated as cash loans.

8.4.2 Borrowings : The amount of cash loans taken by a households during 1.7.91 to 30.6.92 was referred to as its current borrowings, or just borrowings, in brief. For sample households covered during the first visit, such loans were those that were taken from 1.7.91 to 31.12.91, while for those covered during the second visit, these referred to loans taken from 1.1.92 to 30.6.92.

8.4.3 Kind loans: All loans taken in kind (except the cases of hire-purchase) irrespective of whether those were already repaid or yet to be repaid in cash or in kind were considered as kind loans payable.

8.5.1 Household Type: The report presents estimates of assets and liabilities for different types of households. Two different classifications have been adopted for the rural and urban areas.

8.5.2 Classification of rural households: The rural households were classified into two types namely, cultivator and non-cultivator households.

Cultivator household: All rural households operating at least 0.002 hectare of land during the AY 91-92 were treated as 'cultivator households'.

Non-cultivator household: All rural households operating no land or land less than 0.002 hectare were considered as non-cultivator households.

8.5.3 Classification of urban households: For the urban areas, each household was categorised in one of the following two groups, namely, self-employed and 'others' as per the definitions given below :

Self-employed: Persons engaged in the farm or non-farm enterprises of their households are called self-employed workers. In the urban areas, a household was considered as self-employed, if more than 50% of its income during the 365 days preceding the date of survey was derived from self-employment of its members.

Other urban household: All the remaining urban households were treated as 'other' households.

8.5.4 Major household type: This refers to cultivator and non-cultivator (i.e. other than cultivator) households for the rural areas and self-employed and other (i.e. other than self-employed) households for the urban areas.

8.6.1 Credit agency : A person, an association of persons or an organisation dispensing loans to a household was deemed as a credit agency. Credit agencies were of institutional or non-institutional nature.

8.6.2 Institutional agencies : The specific forms of institutional credit agencies considered in this survey are defined below :

(i) Government: The Central and state governments may act as an agency for advancing loans. Government may advance loans through Departments like Revenue, Agriculture, Industries or Rural Development etc. Finance from Government may also be channelled through Khadi and Village Industries Commission. All loans received from the above sources have been treated as from 'Government'.

(ii) Cooperative Society/Bank : Loan may be obtained from agencies, such as cooperative society/banks like primary cooperative credit societies, primary cooperative marketing societies, district or central cooperative banks, primary or central loan development banks, handloom weavers cooperative societies and other industrial or other types of cooperative societies etc. Such societies/banks have been treated as 'cooperative society/bank'.

(iii) Commercial Banks including Regional Rural Bank : All loans taken from commercial banks, including nationalised banks, regional rural banks and State Bank of India and its associates like State Bank of Rajasthan, State Bank of Mysore; Foreign commercial banks operating in India have been considered as loans taken from 'commercial banks'.

(iv) Insurance: All loans taken from Life Insurance Corporation, Postal Life Insurance and other insurance funds will be considered as loans taken from 'insurance'.

(v) Provident Fund: Loans taken from the Provident Fund account, such as Contributory Provident Fund, General Provident Fund, Public Provident Fund and any other provident fund in the public/private sector offices and companies, by the employees of the concern, or account holder in case of Public Provident Fund, will be classified as loans taken from 'Provident Fund'.

(vi) Other Institutional Agencies : Some households may report loans taken from institutions other than those listed above. Institutions such as State Financial Corporations, Small Industries Development Bank of India (SIDBI), Small Industries Development Corporation (SIDC) etc., which play promotional and developmental role through extending finance, may be grouped under this head. Financial and Investment companies which are Public Limited Companies, whether in the private or public sector, were also classified under this category of institutional agencies.

8.6.3 Non-Institutional Agencies: The specific forms of Non-Institutional agencies considered in the survey are defined below:

(i) Landlord : The credit agency for loans given by landlords to their own tenants has been taken as 'landlord'. If the tenant took a loan from a person who was not his landlord, but belonged to the landlord class, the credit agency in such cases was taken as 'agriculturist money lender' or 'professional money lender' etc., depending upon the type of money lending business done by the landlord.

(ii) Agriculturist money lender : An agriculturist money lender is defined as one whose major profession was agriculture and whose money lending business was, comparatively, of minor importance. When a landowner or a cultivator derived the major part of his income from money lending, he was not classified as an 'agriculturist money lender' but as a 'professional money lender'.

(iii) Professional money lender: A professional money lender was a person who earned a major part of his income from money lending.

(iv) Trader: A trader here is defined as a person whose principal occupation was trading.

(v) Relatives & friends : If a loan was received from one of the relatives or friends free of interest, it was considered as a loan taken from 'relatives and friends'. If the loan carried an interest, it was considered as taken from an 'agriculturist money lender', 'trader' etc., depending upon the type of business carried out by the relative or the friend.

(vi) Doctors, lawyers & other professionals: The term is self-explanatory.

(vii) Others : Any non-institutional credit agency not covered above was considered under this category.

8.7.1 Expenditure : The cost borne by a household for performing various kinds of transactions with respect to physical assets such as purchase, construction, improvement (including major repairs, addition etc.) or even normal repairs and maintenance of existing items was deemed as the expenditure of the household. It could involve purchase of assets and materials or payment to hired labour and could be in cash or kind. The detailed method of valuation of expenditure and method followed in the survey for the collection of such data have been explained separately in section 9.

Included : Costs for items gifted away by the household or lost/sold by it. Expenditure for an asset if some construction/improvement/repairs were undertaken on it using materials and/or labour supplied by the household.

Excluded : Value of items received as gifts by the household or of assets constructed/purchased by it for trading purpose.

8.7.2 Classification of expenditure : All items of expenditure fell under three groups viz. "residential plots or buildings", "farm business" and "non-farm business" depending on where they were put to use. The composition of each of these groups is stated below.

(i) Residential plots or buildings : Expenditure under this group comprised such items as purchase of plots, improvement to plots and purchase of house or building or other construction for residential purpose. Details of each of these items are stated below.

Purchase of plots : This related to the purchases of full ownership rights or improvement in the tenurial status of the plots meant for residential purposes alone or along with farm and/or non-farm business.

Improvement of plots : This referred to only that expenditure which was incurred for various land improvement works like fencing etc. on residential plots only.

Purchase/construction for residential purpose : This included any expenses incurred for

- purchase of a new residential building or other construction or
- major repairs and alteration of the existing residential house/building or
- any addition involving increase in the floor area of the existing residential structure for own house or use of others (but not sold).

(ii) Farm business : Farm business comprised household economic activities like cultivation, including cultivation of plantation and orchard crops, and processing of produce on the farm, eg. paddy hulling and gur making. Although gur making is a manufacturing activity, this was covered under farm business for the purpose of this survey only when such activity was carried out in the farm by indigeneous method. Thus, such activities, when they were carried out under the registered sector and also under the un-registered sector outside the farm, were excluded from the purview of the farm business. Farm business also included activities ancillary to agriculture, like livestock raising, poultry, fishing, dairy farm activities, bee keeping and other allied activities. Expenditure under this group comprised several items viz. purchases of land or land rights, building and other land improvements, reclamation of land, orchard and plantations, wells, other irrigation resources, agricultural implements and machinery, transport equipments, farm houses, barns and animal sheds, purchase of livestock, furniture and fixture and other capital expenditure. The terms are explained below.

Purchase of land : any cost borne towards purchase of land for farm business.

Purchase of land rights : any expenditure made to improve tenurial status. Also covers any instalment payment made to government towards purchase price of land settled on tenants in terms of land reform legislations.

Building and other land improvement : This includes all expenses to facilitate irrigation, conserve moisture, prevent soil erosion, protect crops from floods etc.

Reclamation of land : any expenses made towards either by bringing new land under cultivation or land which had earlier been under cultivation but temporarily gone out of cultivation.

Orchards and plantation : The term 'orchards' meant garden of fruit plants and trees while the term 'plantation' referred to other gardens like those of coconut, cashewnuts, tea, coffee, rubber, cardamom etc. The cost of annual replantation and new plantation and addition during the reference period were also considered here. For new orchards and plantations, expenses incurred up to the time they started yielding produce was considered. Expenditure on bund and other land improvement relating to the orchard and plantation were not considered here but shown under bunding.

Wells and other irrigation resources : Any expenditure incurred towards construction of such structures or making major repairs or alternations of existing ones-including those made to augment their capacity- came under the purview of this item.

Agricultural implements and machinery : any implements - which were used in farm business were included here. These were included even when they were used partly in farm business and partly in non-farm business or even in household purpose.

Transport equipments : all such equipments put to use in farm business were included. They also included even when they were put to use partly in non-farm business or even in households in addition to being used in farm business.

Farm houses, barns and animal sheds : Farm houses which were located separately from the residential buildings etc. were only considered. If they were attached to the residential buildings, total expenditure on residential building was shown under constructions for residential purpose (stated earlier). Constructions of purely temporary nature (build to last for only one season) were excluded here.

Furniture and fixture : This included costs of such items used exclusively for the farm business or both for farm and non-farm business. However, if used also for household purpose, they were excluded from here.

Other capital expenditure : This included any cost borne on any other item of farm business like preparing hedges for erecting fences around the field etc. which were undertaken for permanent protection or improvement of the farm.

(iii) Non-farm business : Non-farm business was defined as all household economic activities other than those covered in the farm business. Thus it covered manufacturing and repairing services, mining and quarrying, trade, transport and profession and services. However, all non-farm business enterprises which were registered under section 2m(i) or 2m(ii) and section 85 of Factories Act, 1948, were excluded from the scope of this survey. Bidi and cigar manufacturing establishments, registered under Bidi and Cigar workers Act 1966, were also kept outside the coverage of this survey. Expenditure under this group included purchase of land, improvement of land, buildings, equipments and accessories, transport equipments, furniture and fixtures and other capital expenditure incurred for non-farm business purpose. While the detailed components of these items have already been explained under farm business, here expenditure pertained to 'non-farm' instead of 'farm' business.

8.7.3 Types of capital expenditure : Data on three types of expenditure were collected from the survey. These were fixed capital expenditure, gross capital expenditure and normal repairs and maintenance. These terms have been explained later under section 10 since they involve valuation of different items of expenditure which have been dealt in section 9. Data on each of the three groups - 'residential', 'farm business' and 'non-farm business' were collected for each of the above stated types of expenditure. Details of coverage for each of these are given in section 10.

8.8.1 Major states : The discussion on summary of survey results in Chapter 3, besides covering the national level estimates, deals with the estimates of the relatively large states - in terms of population - as well. These states are referred to as major states in the discussion. They are as follows: Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Gujarat, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu & Kashmir, Karnataka, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Orissa, Punjab, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal. In addition, the discussion covers the estimates of urban Delhi.

9. Valuation of expenditure

9.1.1 The term expenditure has already been defined earlier in section 8. It referred to the reference period 1.7.91 to 31.12.91 for the first visit and 1.1.92 to 30.6.92 in the second visit. The method of valuation of different categories of expenditure followed in the survey is stated below.

9.1.2 As regards any new physical asset purchased, its purchase price - irrespective of whether the entire amount was paid or not during the reference period - was taken as its value. For construction, improvement and maintenance work, the value of actual work done during the reference period was considered. However, all expenditure in kind was evaluated at the current market price prevailing in the locality or its neighbourhood.

9.1.3 For materials purchased during or before the reference period for own construction (including improvement etc.) or normal maintenance and repairs (details in section 10) of the physical assets, the value of the materials used in the construction\maintenance was taken. Such expenditure could be in cash or kind. Similarly, payments made to labour hired during the reference period for construction, improvement etc. or normal maintenance of the physical assets could be partly in cash and partly in kind. All expenditure in kind were evaluated as per the then current market price in the locality or its neighbourhood.

9.1.4 For credit purchases, the value of the materials used during the reference period was considered, whether or not the payment was made during the reference period.

9.1.5 Payments made to regular workers engaged by the household for work in farm or non-farm business were not considered either as expenditure in cash or in kind. They were evaluated as work done by the household members for the enterprise.

9.2.1 Value of assets and materials out of homegrown/home produced stock : The value of such items actually used for the construction, improvement etc. of any particular item of asset during the reference period was taken into consideration. However, the value of commodities paid to the hired labour as their payment in kind was excluded. The home purchased asset and materials used for construction, improvement etc. of the concerned item of assets could have been purchased during or even before the reference period. Such assets and materials supplied by the household was evaluated at the current market price prevailing in the locality during the reference period.

9.3.1 Value of work done by household members (including regular workers): The value of labour put in by the household members, including regular workers, engaged in farm or non-farm business in connection with the manual work needed for repairs, construction etc. of bunds, wells or houses or any other item of physical assets in farm or non-farm business was considered here. In evaluating such work, the contribution of free labour or exchange labour was also included.

9.4.1 Acquisition of assets : The value of assets acquired-physical or financial- by way of purchase, including second hand purchase or gifts, donation etc. were included here. Assets acquired by way of gifts, donation etc.

were evaluated at the current market price prevailing in the locality.

9.5.1 Disposal of assets : This transaction occurred by way of sale or gifts, donation etc. By 'sale' was meant transfer of assets to others in return for payment receivable in cash or kind. The payment received in kind was evaluated at the current market price prevailing in the locality during the reference period. The same pricing criteria was used for evaluating items disposed off by way of gifts, donation etc.

9.6.1 Loss of assets : This arose from natural calamities or other reasons such as accident, theft or being eaten by termites. The value of the loss could be total or partial and was estimated to be the expenditure required to restore the asset to its earlier condition - i.e. prior to the loss. An asset not used by the household was deemed to be discarded during the reference period. The scrap value of such assets were taken into account.

10. Types of expenditure

10.1.1 As mentioned earlier (in section 8), data on three types of expenditure viz. fixed capital expenditure, gross capital expenditure and normal repairs and maintenance were collected from the survey. Of these types, while the third type involved only costs borne towards upkeep of assets in working condition, the other two referred to expenditure incurred on capital account. Explanatory notes on each of these types is provided below.

10.1.2 Fixed capital expenditure : This expenditure on capital account reflected increase in the productive capacity or utility of an existing item of asset, thereby providing a measure of capital formation. All such expenditure leading to capital formation could have been incurred by way of new purchase, construction for own use, additions, alterations, improvement and major repairs of physical assets, which helped in their further production. Thus, all expenditure on land development work and on fixed assets used in farm and non-farm business and on residential plots and buildings were considered as fixed capital expenditure. Moreover, the value of assets and materials used out of home produced stock as well as value of work done by the household members during the reference period were also included under this type.

10.1.3 However, fixed capital expenditure excluded any expenditure incurred towards certain items of assets. These items are :

- for residential plots and buildings : purchase of plots
- for farm business : purchase of land, land rights and live stock
- for non-farm business : purchase of land.

10.1.4 Normal repairs and maintenance : This included outlays of recurring nature on fixed assets necessary to keep them in good working order. Replacements of parts and adjustment of fixed assets which were short lived (i.e. with an expected usage/life of up to one year) and/or relatively low value were also included here. It excluded expenditure on certain item like purchase or improvement of plots under 'residential plots and buildings' and purchase/improvement of land rights under farm or non-farm business.

10.1.5 Gross capital expenditure : This broad head included all expenditure on normal repairs and maintenance for all items of fixed capital as stated above in addition to those giving towards fixed capital formation. In addition, expenditure incurred for certain purchases viz. of plots (for residential plots and buildings), of land, land rights and livestock (for farm business ) and of land (for non-farm business), which were excluded from fixed capital expenditure, were also included under this head.

11. Contents of the Report

11.1.1 This report contains three chapters, including the present introductory chapter, and an appendix. Chapter 2 gives a fairly detailed description of the sample design and estimation procedure used for the survey. Chapter 3 discusses the main findings on various aspects of household capital expenditure as obtained from the survey data analysis. The detailed data based on which this report is brought out, are presented in the Appendix.

11.2.1 Appendix: The Appendix of the report contains 15 tables, of which, except the first three, a majority of the tables provide estimates on some aspect of expenditure incurred by households during 1.7.91 to 30.6.92. The first three tables pertain to sample size and basic distribution of households by different characteristics.

11.2.2 Among the remaining 12 tables, while four tables each are on fixed capital expenditure (Tables 4 to 7) and gross capital expenditure (Tables 8 to 11), one table (table 12) pertains to normal repairs and maintenance. The subsequent two tables (Tables 13 and 14) present some estimates on sale and loss of different item of assets. The last table deals with certain items of assets acquired or disposed off by the households.

11.2.3 It would be in order to mention here that the cell figures in any of these detailed tables, when added up, may not exactly equal the figure shown against the 'total' column (or line) due to (i) rounding off and/or (ii) presence of non-response cases. Footnotes have been given in the Appendix Tables wherever the non-response cases arise but are not shown separately in the tables.

11.2.4 All the estimates presented in this report are based on the central sample data only. Further, the basic distribution of the number of first stage units and that of surveyed households have been presented, separately for each sub-sample, in Table no. 1 of the appendix. To get a stronger feel for sub-sample variations, the distribution of households classified by different characteristics such as major occupational category and household asset holding have likewise been presented at the sub-sample level in tables 2 and 3 of the Appendix. In addition, a few key estimates on distribution of households reporting fixed (or gross) capital expenditure and average value of fixed (or gross) capital expenditure have also been given at such a level of disaggregation in tables 4 and 8 of the Appendix.

Chapter 2

Sample Design and Estimation Procedure

1 Sample Design

1.1.1 A stratified two-stage sampling design was adopted for the survey with the first stage units as census villages for rural areas and the Urban Frame Survey blocks for urban areas. Households formed the second stage units in both rural and urban areas.

1.2.1 Sampling frame for first stage units (FSU's): In the rural sector, the sampling frame in most of the strata was the 1981 census list of villages. However, in Assam, where the 1981 census was not undertaken, and in a few districts of other states, where the available list as per 1981 census was incomplete, the 1971 census list of villages was used. In the urban sector, the sampling frames used in most cases were the lists of NSS Urban Frame Survey (UFS) blocks. However, the 1991 census houselisting enumeration blocks were considered as the sampling units for some of the new towns declared as urban areas in the 1991 population census.

1.3.1 Stratification: Each state/union territory (u.t.) was divided into one or more agro-economic regions by grouping contiguous districts which are similar with respect to population density and crop pattern. In Gujarat, however, some districts were sub-divided for the purpose of region formation on the basis of location of dry areas and the distribution of tribal population in the state. The total number of regions formed in the India as whole was 78.

1.3.2 In the rural sector, within each region, each district with a rural population of less than 1.8 million according to the 1981 census formed a single basic stratum. Districts with larger population were divided into two or more strata, depending on population, by grouping contiguous tehsils, similar as far as possible in respect of rural population density and crop pattern. In Gujarat, however, in the case of districts extending over more than one region, the portion of a district falling in each region constituted a separate stratum even if the rural population of the district as a whole was less than 1.8 million. Further, in Assam, the strata formed for the earlier NSS rounds on the basis of 1971 census rural population exactly in the above manner, but with a cut-off of 1.5 million population, were retained as the strata for rural sampling.

1.3.3 In the urban sector, strata were formed, again within NSS regions, on the basis of 1981 (1991 in some of the new towns) census population of towns. Each city with a population 10 lakhs or more formed a separate stratum by itself. The remaining towns of each region were grouped to form three different strata on the basis of 1981 (1991 in a few cases) census population. The strata were formed as details stated below :

Composition of Urban Strata :

stratum no.	population size class of towns
1	all towns with a population of less than 50,000
2	all towns with a population of 50,000 to 1,99,999
3	all towns with a population of 2,00,000 to 9,99,999
4	all towns with a population of 1 million and above

1.4.1 Allocation of sample: A total all-India sample of 6,812 first stage units (4,328 villages and 2,484 urban blocks) - determined on the basis of investigator strength in different states/u.t.'s and the expected workload per investigator - was initially allocated to the states/u.t.'s in proportion to central field staff available. The sample thus obtained for each state/u.t. was then allocated to its rural and urban sectors considering the relative sizes of the rural and urban population with almost double weightage being given for the urban sector. Within each sector of state/u.t., the allotted sample size was relocated to the different strata in proportion to the stratum population. All allocations were adjusted so that the sample size for a stratum was at least a multiple of 4 for the rural and urban sectors separately. This was done to accomplish equal sized samples in each sub-sample and sub-round. The only exception was Daman & Diu for which the first stage rural sample comprised 2 villages only.

1.5.1 Selection of first stage units: The selection of sample villages was PPS (with replacement) with population as the size variable, in the form of two independent sub-samples. The sample blocks were selected by simple random sampling without replacement, also in the form of two independent sub-samples.

1.5.2 Arunachal Pradesh: For the rural areas of Arunachal Pradesh, a cluster sampling procedure was followed. The field staff were supplied with a list of sample "nucleus" villages and were advised to select clusters of villages, each cluster being formed around a nucleus village, according to prescribed guidelines. The nucleus villages were selected circular systematically with equal probability, in the form of two independent sub-samples.

1.6.1 Selection of hamlet-groups/sub-blocks: Large villages and blocks were divided into a suitable number of hamlet-groups and sub-blocks, respectively, having more or less equal population content. Two hamlet-groups were then selected from large villages, whereas only one sub-block was selected from the large blocks. The hamlet-groups were selected circular systematically and the sub-block with equal probability.

1.7.1 Selection of households: Two different procedures of selection of households were used for the rural and urban sectors. Different procedures for the two sectors were necessary, since in the rural sector schedules of enquiry for LHS survey and Debt & Investment survey were required to be canvassed in two separate sets of sample households, while in the urban sector, both the schedules were to be canvassed in the same set of sample households.

1.7.2 In the rural sector, nine households were selected from each sample village/selected hamlet groups. For selecting a sample of nine households, each sample village/hamlet group was subdivided into 7 AIDIS sub-strata on the joint consideration of "land possessed" and "indebtedness status" of the households; first, all the households of the sample village/selected hamlet groups were divided into four LHS sub-strata by area of land possessed by them. Households possessing either no land or land less than 0.005 acre were grouped in sub-stratum 1. The rest of the households were then arranged in ascending order by area of land possessed and classified into three sub-strata, 2, 3 and 4, such that the total area of land possessed by the households in each of the 3 sub-strata was nearly the same. Each of the LHS sub-strata 1 and 2 was further divided into "indebted" and "not indebted" groups to form AIDIS sub-stratum 1 to 4. AIDIS sub-strata 5 to 7 are formed by first merging LHS substrata numbers 3 and 4 and then sub-divided by the merged group into 3 classes, viz., (a) indebted to institutional agencies with or without being indebted to non-institutional agencies (b) indebted to non-institutional agencies alone and

Sample Design & Estimation Procedure
(c) not indebted. Independent sample of size 1,1,1,2,1,1&2 were selected circular systematically from the AIDIS sub-strata 1,2,3,4,5,6 and 7 respectively

1.7.3 In the urban sector, a sample of 9 households was selected from each sample urban block/sub-block. The households of a sample block/sub-block were classified into 7 AIDIS sub-strata, considering the monthly per capita consumption expenditure (mpce) and indebtedness status of the households. For this, the households were first grouped in three mpce classes, viz., less than A, A to B and B & above. The cut-off points A and B were determined at the state-level on the basis of mpce obtained from the survey on consumer expenditure, NSS 43rd Round, such that the mpce classes, below A, A to B, and B and above, respectively constituted 30 p.c, 60 p.c, and 10 p.c. of the urban population of the state. These mpce classes were further sub-divided by indebtedness status of the households to form 7 AIDIS sub-strata. Independent samples were selected circular systematically from each of the sub-stratum. The number of households was selected from sub-strata 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 respectively 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 2 & 1.

*1.8.1 Sample size: In all, the survey covered 57,031 households spread over 6,650 sample villages/blocks. The number of sample villages and blocks surveyed, and the number of sample households surveyed, are given for different state/u.t.'s and all-India in Appendix Table 1R & 1U respectively for rural and urban sectors.

2. ESTIMATION PROCEDURE

2.1.1 The estimation procedure adopted in the 48th round for schedule 18.2 is briefly indicated here.

2.2.1 Notations: The notations used for describing the estimation procedure are given below :

s : subscript for sth stratum
i : subscript for ith village/block

t : subscript for tth sub-stratum (i.e. household-strata within a village/block)

j : subscript for jth sample house-hold

L : total number of rural/urban strata in the state

p : village population (used for sampling and as per frame )

P : total population of a rural stratum (as per frame)

N : total number of blocks in an urban stratum as per frame. This notation is also used for total number of villages in a rural stratum of Arunachal Pradesh as per frame

n : number surveyed villages/blocks including depopulated and zero cases available for tabulation (excluding casualty and other not received cases)

C : number of census villages in a surveyed revenue village

D : number of hamlet-groups/sub-blocks formed

H : total number of households in the frame

h : number of surveyed households (available for tabulation ) in a sub-stratum

x , y : values of characteristics

X or Y : total of x or y at the state level

$\bar{Y}$  : estimate of Y from the sample for rural sector

$D' = D$  if  $D=1$
 $=D/2$  if  $D \geq 4$

Comment:

2.2.2 Estimates of aggregates: As sampling procedures were different for the rural and the urban sectors, the estimation formulae used for the two sectors was also different.

2.2.3 Rural: For the states and u.t.s, other than Arunachal Pradesh and Lakshadweep, the estimates for the aggregate for the sth stratum is given by

$$\bar{Y}_s = \frac{P_s}{n_s} \sum_{i=1}^{ns} \frac{D'_{si}}{C_{si}} \frac{1}{p_{si}} \sum_{t=1}^7 \frac{H_{sit}}{h_{sit}} \sum_{j=1}^{hsit} y_{sitj}$$

For Arunachal Pradesh ,

$$\bar{Y}_s = \frac{N_s}{n_s} \sum_{i=1}^{ns} \sum_{t=1}^7 \sum_{j=1}^{hsit} \frac{H_{sit}}{h_{sit}} y_{sitj}$$ and for Lakshadweep,

$$\bar{Y}_s = \frac{7}{n_s} \sum_{i=1}^{ns} \frac{D'_{si}}{C_{si}} \sum_{t=1}^7 \sum_{j=1}^{hsit} \frac{H_{sit}}{h_{sit}} y_{sitj}$$

2.2.4 Urban: For all the states, the estimate of aggregate of the  $s^{\text{th}}$  stratum is given by

$$\bar{Y}_s = \frac{N_s}{n_s} \sum_{i=1}^{n_s} D_{si} \sum_{t=1}^7 \frac{H_{sit}}{h_{sit}} \sum_{j=1}^{h_{sit}} y_{sitj}$$

2.2.5 State/u.t. level estimates: The aggregate estimates at the state /u.t. levels were worked out separately for the rural and urban sectors. For both the sectors, the aggregate estimate at the state/u.t. level was obtained as

$$\bar{Y} = \sum_{s=1}^L \bar{Y}_s$$

2.2.6 Subsample estimates : Each subsample estimate was based on the data collected from the surveyed FSUs of the respective subsample. For each state/u.t. (or national level estimate) two subsample estimates were obtained separately for the rural and urban sectors. The formulae given above were used for this purpose, taking  $n_s$  as the number of surveyed FSUs of the respective subsample.

2.2.7 Combined estimate: The 'combined' estimates for the rural or urban sector of a state/u.t. (or national level estimate) were obtained as the simple averages of the sub-samplewise estimates for the respective sectors. All the estimates presented in this report are based on the combined estimates of the aggregates, unless otherwise specified.

2.2.8 Estimates of ratios: Let  $X$  and  $Y$  be the respective totals of two characteristics  $\mathcal{X}$  and  $\mathcal{Y}$  at the state/u.t./national level. Thus the estimate of ratio  $R = Y/X$  is obtained as and  $\bar{Y}$  are the estimates of  $X$  and  $Y$  respectively. Both the subsample and the combined estimates of ratios were obtained in this way.

Chapter 3

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1.1 As stated in Chapter 1, the present report is the last in the series of five reports on Debt & Investment Survey, NSS 48th round. The first report (Report no. 419) contained the estimates of different items of household assets and also of total assets and cash loans of the households. The second report (in two publications - Report no. 420 for rural and Report no. 421 for urban areas) gave estimates of indebted households and the amount of debt classified by various correlates. The third report (Report no. 431) provided estimates of the number of households reporting current borrowings and repayments made during 1.7.91 to 30.6.92 and amounts thereof by different variables. The fourth report furnished estimates on some selected aspects of household assets and liabilities for households belonging to the three different social groups - scheduled tribe, scheduled caste and the remaining households grouped as 'others'. The present report gives estimates of different types of capital expenditure incurred by households. All estimates are based on central sample data only.

1.1.2 This chapter summarises the important findings of the survey and discusses the salient features pertaining to certain aspects of household expenditure during the period 1.7.91 to 30.6.92 for rural and urban areas at the state and all-India level.

1.1.3 A preliminary discussion has been made in section 2 on the aggregate expenditure incurred by households by type of expenditure. It is followed by a discussion on capital expenditure by occupational categories (in section 3) and by household assets holding (in section 4). The aspect of expenditure incurred under various broad heads is next examined in fair detail. While section 5 initiates this discussion by presenting the basic estimates, section 6 focuses on state-level variations. The final section presents a study of the acquisition and depletion of physical assets of households. A list of the full forms of the various abbreviations used has been given at the end of this chapter.

2. AGGREGATE EXPENDITURE

2.1.1 The three types of expenditure incurred by households were fixed capital expenditure (FCE), gross capital expenditure (GCE) and normal repairs and maintenance (NRM). Detailed explanation of each of these terms has been given earlier in chapter 1.

2.1.2 Table 1 presents the aggregate amounts of capital expenditure both fixed and gross - and that on normal repairs and maintenance, incurred by rural and urban households during 1.7.91 to 30.6.92 (91-92 in brief).

2.1.3 Fixed capital expenditure : The table shows that aggregate fixed capital expenditure for rural and urban households during 91-92 was Rs.13,411 crores and Rs.7,221 crores respectively. Thus, rural households accounted for nearly two thirds of the entire fixed capital formation made in India during 91-92.

2.1.4 Gross capital expenditure : The picture remained much the same when gross capital expenditure is considered. Table 1 tells that the aggregate gross capital expenditure during 91-92 was Rs.19,784 crores for rural and Rs.9,052 crores for urban households. Thus, about two-thirds of the aggregate GCE at the all India level was accounted by rural households during 1991-92.

2.1.5 Normal repairs and maintenance : Aggregate expenditure on such activities was Rs.2,733 crores in rural and Rs.1,002 crores in urban India during 91-92.

Rural areas accounted for nearly three-fourths of the overall expenditure on normal repairs and maintenance in India.

2.1.6 Having formed a broad idea of the different types of expenditure in aggregate terms, it would be worthwhile to explore into some interesting features pertaining to them like their prevalence among households average values etc. by various characteristics such as occupational category, asset holding class, broad head of expenditure etc. Since detailed expenditure on normal repairs and maintenance is available by broad head of expenditure alone, the relevant discussion has been restricted to the two types of capital expenditure incurred by households in the following sections.

3. CAPITAL EXPENDITURE BY OCCUPATIONAL CATEGORIES

3.1.1 A few important characteristics of household capital expenditure are studied in this section by considering expenditure incurred separately by households belonging to the occupational categories cultivator and non-cultivator in rural India and self-employed and other urban households in urban India.

3.2 Incidence and average values of capital expenditure

3.2.1 Incidence: Table 2 presents the incidence i.e. proportion of households that, during 1991-92, had incurred some capital expenditure - fixed or gross - by occupational categories in rural and urban India. It reveals that the incidence of incurring capital expenditure - be it on FCE or GCE - was much more among cultivator households in rural India and self-employed households in urban India.

	FCE	GCE	AFCE	AGCE

Note : In urban areas, for 48th round, the category 'all' includes households in the 'n.r.' category.

3.2.2 Average capital expenditure : Table 2 also provides the average values of FCE and GCE at the all India level, separately for rural and urban areas, by occupation categories. As in the case of prevalence discussed above, average value of FCE, (AFCE) or that of GCE (AGCE) is much higher for cultivator households than for non-cultivator in rural areas. In urban areas, value of AFCE or AGCE is significantly higher for self-employed households than for other urban households.

4. CAPITAL EXPENDITURE BY ASSET HOLDING CLASSES

4.1.1 It is necessary to study the behaviour of the incidence i.e. proportion of households (P) reporting capital expenditure and average values (A) of capital in Table 3. This has been done separately for rural and urban areas. The values of average fixed capital expenditure (AFCE) and average gross capital expenditure (AGCE) by AHCs are shown in Table 4.

4.2 Incidence by AHCs

4.2.1 FCE in rural areas : Table 3 shows that the incidence of incurring fixed capital expenditure among rural households during 1991-92 rose almost steadily over all the AHCs - from 6% in the bottom AHC to 27% in the top AHC - the rise being the sharpest (5%) in the top AHC.

4.2.2 GCE in rural areas : The rise in the incidence of GCE among rural households during the same period, was also phenomenal - from 24% in the bottom AHC to 58% in the top AHC. However, the rise was sharpest at the lower end of the asset holdings scale viz. for the second and third expenditure - fixed or gross - over households categorised by various asset holding groups. These asset holding classes (AHCs) are arranged in an ascending order of magnitude and the P-values of FCE or GCE corresponding to each AHC are shown AHC. For the AHC 'Rs. 5 to 10 thousand' the rise was a noteworthy 11 percentage points while for the AHC 'Rs. 10 to 20 thousand' it was nearly 5 percentage points. For the top AHC also, a rise of about 5 percentage points is observed.

4.2.3 FCE in urban areas : Unlike in rural areas, the proportion of households spending some money on fixed capital formation did not rise invariably among urban households owning more assets. Table 3 shows that the proportion fell - marginally for two AHCs and substantially for one AHC - as compared to its value in the preceding AHC.

4.2.4 GCE in urban areas : The pattern of P- values for GCE over AHCs in urban areas was, however, quite similar to that

4.3.1 AFCE in rural areas : From Table 4 it is seen that, during 1991-92, the value of AFCE rose over almost all the AHCs. The rise was particularly sharp for the top two AHCs, where the rise in value of AFCE over that in the preceding AHC exceeded 100%. The value of AFCE in the top AHC (Rs.5082) was nearly 30 times of that (Rs.173) in the bottom AHC, while AFCE for rural India as a whole was Rs. 1152 during 1991-92.

4.3.2 AGCE in rural areas : While the value of AGCE increased over all AHCs the rise was not as sharp as noted for AFCE. A rise of over 100% in the value of AGCE observed in rural areas. The P-values rose over almost all the AHCs, the rise being the maximum (about 14 percentage points) for the second lowest AHC and quite significant (6 percentage points) for the top AHC.

over that in the preceding AHC was noted only in the top AHC. The value of AGCE in the top AHC was about 23 times that in the bottom AHC.

4.3.3 AFCE in urban areas : The pattern in the value of AFCE is very similar to that seen for them in rural areas. Value of AFCE rose over all the AHCs, with its value in the top AHC being nearly 40 times that in the bottom AHC.

4.3.4 AGCE in urban areas : The observation made above for values of AGCE in rural areas holds true here too. For no AHC did the rise in AGCE over that in its preceding AHC exceed 100%. The value of AGCE in the top AHC was 34 times that in the bottom AHC.

4.4 Distribution of capital expenditure by AHC

4.4.1 Having made an initial study on the proportions of households reporting capital expenditure and average values of such expenditure by AHC, we can make a detailed examination of the pattern of distribution of capital expenditure by households belonging to different AHCs. Since the preliminary analysis showed close similarity in the behaviour of FCE and GCE, this further probe is restricted to FCE only.

4.4.2 Table 5 presents the percentage distribution of households and of FCE by AHC, separately for rural and urban areas, during 1991-92. A general feature is readily observable from this table for both rural and urban areas. Households belonging to the bottom AHCs accounted for a significantly lower - and those in the top AHCs, for a much higher - proportion of the FCE than their proportion in all households.

4.4.3 In rural areas : Table 5 reveals that 7% households, belonging to each of the two bottom AHCs, accounted for just about

1% of the aggregate FCE (TFCE) in rural

India. In contrast, less than a tenth of the rural households belonging to the top AHC were responsible for more than two-fifths of the aggregate expenditure incurred on fixed capital.

4.4.4 In urban areas : The picture is much the same for urban India too. During 1991-92, while about 18% of the 'poorest' urban households - belonging to the bottom AHC - incurred just 1% of TFCE, the 'richest' 14% households in the top AHC accounted for two-fifths of TFCE in urban areas.

4.4.5 Skewed distribution of FCE : To bring out the unevenness in the distribution of FCE as discussed above in a better way, Table 6 shows the cumulative percentage distribution of households and that of FCE during 1991-92, derived from Table 5.

4.4.6 Table 6 reveals that the distribution of FCE by household asset holdings is highly skewed in both rural and urban areas. Arranged by asset holdings in an ascending order, it is seen that the 'poorest' 15% of rural households owning assets not exceeding Rs. 10,000 in value, contributed only 2.5% to TFCE, contrasted to an impressive share of TFCE (60%) accounted for by the 'richest' 19% households owning assets valued at Rs. 1.5 lakh or more. The same phenomenon was witnessed in urban India too. There, the 'poorest' 24% of the households owning assets of value up to Rs. 10 thousand, contributed only a low 3% to TFCE - whereas the 'richest' 24% owning assets valued at Rs. 1.5 lakh or more, accounted for substantial 56% share.

4.4.7 It could be interesting to compare the above results with those obtained from the earlier rounds of the AIDIS. However, the pattern observed in the preceding discussion cannot be meaningfully compared, per se, with similar distribution derived from the data of the earlier NSS rounds, owing to changes in prices as well as the range of the asset holding classes themselves, during the period 1971-72 to 1991-92. To overcome these difficulties, the percentage share of the TFCE accounted for by the bottom 30 and top 10 percent of the households, arranged by asset holding during 1971-72, 1981-82 and 1991-92 have been derived (using linear interpolation) and presented in Table 7 for rural areas. Table 8 gives similar results for urban areas during 1981-82 and 1991-92. The figures for 1971-72 for urban areas cannot be presented as the results of the NSS 26th round pertaining to 1971-72 were not released for urban areas.

4.4.8 Rich and poor households : The poorest 30% of rural households which were at the bottom of the household assets holding scale (referred to as B30P in brief) accounted for a very low share of the TFCE - ranging from 4% to 7% only - throughout the two decades ending 91-92. The same feature was observed in the urban areas during the 1980s, the share ranging between 2% and 4% at the two terminal years. On the other hand, the richest 10% rural households at the top of the assets holding scale (referred to as T10P in brief) were responsible for a substantial part - ranging from about two-fifth to more than half - of the TFCE during the 1970s and 1980s. Such households in urban areas accounted for a substantial 52% and a sizable 29% of TFCE during 1981-82 and 1991-92 respectively.

4.4.9 Change over time : The two tables further reveal that although the poorest 30% households had a very low share in the TFCE throughout the two decades under study, a rise of 1.5 percentage points in this share was noticeable over each of the two decades for rural areas and of 2 percentage points during the 1980s in the urban areas. Similarly, the share of the top 10% households fell by 5.5 percentage points during the 1970s and by 2.5 percentage points during the 1980s in rural areas. However, a drastic fall of nearly 23 percentage points in this share is noticeable during the 1980s in urban areas. Thus, reduction in disparity in terms of capital expenditure between the richest 10% and poorest 30% of the households was more spectacular in urban areas than in rural areas during the 1980s.

5. BROAD HEADS OF CAPITAL EXPENDITURE

5.1.1 As explained in chapter 1, the three broad heads under which various items of expenditure were incurred were 'residential plots and buildings', 'farm business' and 'non-farm business'. It would be of interest to examine the relative importance of each of these in the formation of fixed capital in rural and urban India. Towards this end, the percentage shares of TFCE under each of these broad heads of expenditure (BHE, in brief) during 1991-92, are presented in Table 9. Similar shares have also been displayed for the other two types of expenditure viz. gross capital expenditure and normal repairs and maintenance in the same table.

5.1.2 Relative importance of BHEs : Table 9 reveals that, during 1991-92, a major portion of the expenditure, under any of the three types of expenditure, in rural and urban India, related to 'residential plots and buildings'. Further, in terms of the percentage share of their expenditure, the broad heads 'non-farm business' in rural India and 'farm business' in urban India were the least important among the three BHEs during 1991-92.

5.1.3 Having studied the relative importance of the BHEs during 1991-92, a natural question arises : has there been any shift in the importance of these broad heads over time ? An attempt has been made in the next sub-section to address this issue.

Table 9

GCE	72.4	8.7	18.9	100.0
NRM	51.0	10.4	38.6	100.0

5.2 Changing importance of BHEs over time

5.2.1 The percentage distribution of fixed capital expenditure and of gross capital expenditure by three broad heads of expenditure during 1971-72, 1981-82 and 1991-92 for rural areas and 1981-82 and 1991-92 for urban areas of India have been presented in Tables 10 and 11 respectively.

5.2.2 However, it may be noted that the method of collecting data on items of capital expenditure in the 48th round differed from that followed in the 26th and 37th rounds.

In the earlier rounds, a sequential enquiry was made for detailed information by various heads for each item of capital expenditure - and various transactions under each such item - in a single block in the schedule of enquiry. In the 48th round, possibly in an attempt to shorten the schedule, enquiry was made in one block, for every item of capital expenditure, whether a sample household had incurred any kind of capital expenditure, with a yes/no type response. After this, data were collected in a separate block regarding details of amount of expenditure by various heads for only those items which had a 'yes' response in the first block.

5.2.3 Rural areas : The message given by table 10 is clear. The relative importance of the BHE "residential plots and buildings" is seen to be growing at the expense of the other two BHEs - specially "farm business" - for both types of capital expenditure ( FCE and GCE ), throughout the two decades ending 1991-92. While the rise in percentage share in the BHE "residential plots and buildings" was spectacular - about 14 percentage points for both FCE and GCE - during the decade ending 1981-82, it was less so - though still significant - at 5 and 9 percentage points for FCE and GCE respectively, for the decade ending 1991-92. During the same period, while the fall in percentage share for the BHE "farm business" was commensurate with the rise noted above, for the BHE "non-farm business", a fall of only 2 percentage points in the share of TFCE is noted during the 1980s, after having remained virtually unchanged during the 1970s.

FCE and till 1981-82 for GCE to the BHE "residential plots and buildings". Among the three BHEs, "non-farm business" enjoyed the lowest percentage share - ranging from 7 to 10 - during the entire period for either FCE or GCE.

5.2.5 AFCE and AGCE in rural areas : From Table 10 it is seen that AFCE for the BHE 'residential plots and buildings' grew more than - and AFCE for the BHE 'farm business' grew less than - that shown by AFCE for all items during the 1970s (about 400%) and 1980s (about 300%). Similar situation prevailed for the average values of gross capital expenditure per household during these two decades, although the growth rates were a little less for AGCE than those for AFCE. AFCE for households incurring some expenditure on 'residential plots and buildings' increased more than five-fold during the 1970s and more than

5.2.4 Thus, in rural India, the BHE "farm business" appears to have lost the pre-eminence it had enjoyed till 1971-72 for three-fold during 1980s whereas AFCE for households incurring some expenditure on 'farm business' increased just about threefold during the 1970s and less than three-fold during the 1980s.

expenditure - fixed or gross - has grown sharply. During this decade, the percentage share of this BHE in the aggregate value of FCE and GCE of this BHE has shown a steep rise of 25 and 21 percentage points respectively. Interestingly, this rise in importance occurred almost entirely at the expense of "non-farm business", for which BHE the corresponding percentage share plummeted by a spectacular 25 percentage points for FCE and 20 percentage points for GCE during this period. The large fall resulted in "non-farm business" accounting for hardly a fifth of the TFCE or TGCE during 1991-92 as contrasted to nearly two-fifths of these aggregates during 1981-82.

5.2.7 AFCE and AGCE in urban areas : Table 11 shows that AFCE (or AGCE) for the BHE 'residential plots and buildings' grew more than AFCE (or AGCE) on all items during the 1980s - the former showing three-fold increase while the latter, a two-fold increase. However, for the BHE 'non-farm business', AFCE reported during 1991-92 (Rs.302) was lower than that reported during 1981-82 (Rs.323) but AGCE reported during 1991-92 (Rs.409) was a little more than that reported in 1981-82 (Rs.387).

6. STATE LEVEL VARIATION OF CAPITAL EXPENDITURE DURING 1991-92

6.1.1 It has been earlier observed that during 91-92, the pattern of variation for fixed capital expenditure and gross capital expenditure was broadly similar by occupation category (section 3) or asset holding class (section 4) both in terms of prevalence and average values. Thus, it would suffice to limit attention to only one of them for examining their state level variations. For this purpose, the average amount of fixed capital expenditure per household has been shown, as it provides a measure of the fixed capital formation during the period.

6.2 AFCE by states during 1991-92

6.2.1 The values of AFCE for the major states have been presented in Table 12 for rural areas and Table 13 for urban areas.

6.2.2 In rural areas : It is seen from Table 12 that in terms of AFCE, Haryana (Rs. 4266), Kerala (Rs. 3322) and Himachal Pradesh (Rs. 2322) were the top ranking states while states of the eastern zone like Bihar (Rs. 200), Assam (RS. 317), Orissa (Rs. 399) and West Bengal (Rs. 491) were the laggards. Further, the values of AFCE reported by some large states like Uttar Pradesh, Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu were quite moderate : only Rs. 1192 for Uttar Pradesh and nearly Rs.1400 for Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu each.

6.2.3 In urban areas : Table 13 shows that the states of Himachal Pradesh, Orissa, Haryana and Kerala ranked first, second, third and fourth respectively in terms of AFCE among states. The other three major eastern region states (excepting Orissa) viz. Bihar, West Bengal and Assam, reported very low values of AFCE - Rs.294, Rs.852 and Rs.964 respectively. Further, some large states like Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh, also reported moderate values of AFCE -Rs.1918, Rs.1848 and Rs. 2255 respectively. Uttar Pradesh reported a very low value of AFCE - Rs.1248 - which was much below the national average of Rs. 1726.

6.3 AFCE over BHE for states during 1991-92

6.3.1 It would be interesting to know how average fixed capital expenditure per household varied over states during 1991-92

Kerala, Himachal Pradesh and Punjab were such states ( see also sec. 6.2). This observation, however, does not hold for either of the other two BHEs. Average fixed for each broad head of expenditure. To this end, the values of AFCE for each BHE, as reported by the major states during 1991-92, have been presented in Table 16 (rural) and Table 17 (urban).

6.3.2 Rural areas : Table 14 indicates that during 1991-92, the states which reported high values of AFCE in rural areas were the same as those which reported high average values of fixed capital expenditure in 'residential plots and buildings'. Haryana, capital expenditure in 'farm business' reported by Karnataka (Rs.882), Rajasthan (Rs.778) and Madhya Pradesh (Rs.737) exceeded that reported by Haryana (Rs.663), Kerala(Rs.305) or Himachal Pradesh(Rs.363). Further, average fixed capital expenditure in 'non-farm business' reported by Jammu & Kashmir (Rs.178) and Gujarat (Rs.162) far exceeded that reported by Haryana or Punjab (Rs.45 each).

6.3.3. Urban areas : Table 15 shows that a similar pattern is observed in urban areas also. The five states of Himachal Pradesh, Orissa, Haryana, Kerala and Jammu & Kashmir reported very high values of AFCE as well as average fixed capital expenditure reported the highest AFCE in 'non-farm business'. Further, urban Rajasthan and Tamil Nadu reported much higher values of AFCE in 'non-farm business' (Rs.441 and Rs.444 respectively) than reported by Himachal Pradesh (Rs159).

in 'residential plots and buildings' among the major states in India. However, much higher values of AFCE in 'farm business' were reported by Rajasthan (Rs. 263), Karnataka (Rs.177) or Assam (Rs.175) than those reported by the above five states, save Kerala. Moreover, urban Andhra Pradesh

6.4 Distribution of FCE over BHE for states during 1991-92

6.4.1 Earlier (in sec.5) the relative importance of the three heads of expenditure in the formation of fixed capital was studied at the all India level. It would be interesting to conduct a similar study at the state level for major states and observe the state wise variations. This exercise has been attempted in the following paragraphs on the basis of the values of percentage shares of TFCE which were computed under each BHE for each major state. These percentage shares are presented in Table 16 for rural areas and Table 17 for urban areas.

6.4.2 In rural areas : Table 16 reveals that during 1991-92, many states conformed to the broad pattern of substantial share of the rural FCE being incurred on the BHE 'residential plots and buildings', followed by a moderate contribution from 'farm business' accounted for more than half - and 'residential plots and buildings' for less than two-fifth - of fixed capital expenditure incurred in rural areas of these states.

6.4.3 Table 16 indicates that in quite a number of states, 'farm business' contributed much less than a third of the state - level TFCE. The more notable among these were Kerala, Assam, Orissa, Haryana and Himachal Pradesh, in which the percentage share hovered between 9% to 16%. Of these business', which had earlier been observed ( in sec. 5 ) at the all India level. However, some major states behaved quite differently. Foremost among such states were Madhya Pradesh and Karnataka where 'farm

5 states, Haryana, Assam and Orissa showed an exceptionally high contribution - above 75% of the TFCE - from 'residential plots and buildings'. Kerala and Himachal Pradesh, the other two states, displayed a markedly higher contribution - 20% and

16% respectively - from 'non-farm business', the PSTFCE for this BHE at the national level being a paltry 8%. Such relatively high order of contribution emanating from 'non-farm business' in rural areas was also noticeable for Jammu and Kashmir (16%) and West Bengal (15%). These states simultaneously displayed relatively low contribution - 18.5% and 21.6% respectively for a few states. However, for all the major states, the pre-eminence of 'residential plots and buildings' as the major source of TFCE - although varying in extent - was quite clear. States where this pre-eminence was comparatively less were Uttar Pradesh and Rajasthan, where only about 63% of the state-level TFCE could be traced back to this BHE. For these two states, both 'farm

- from the BHE 'farm business', whose PSTFCE stood at 33% at all India level.

6.4.4 In urban areas : Table 17 reveals that the broad all India pattern observed during 91-92 in urban areas viz. more than three-fourths of TFCE emanating from 'residential plots and buildings', about a sixth or so of it from 'non-farm business' and the balance 5% or so from 'farm business', did not hold true

'business' and 'non-farm business' as a source of fixed capital formation were far more important than in urban India as a whole. In particular, 'farm business' accounted for percentage shares of 11 and 14 respectively of TFCE for these states, which were much higher than the share of 'farm business' in TFCE at the national level (5%).

6.4.5 On the other hand, Table 17 shows that for a few states like Orissa, Delhi and Himachal Pradesh, the BHE 'residential plots and buildings' accounted for 94% or more of the state-level TFCE and limited the contribution of the other two BHEs, in particular 'non-farm business', to a very low figure. Assam, which showed a very low contribution of 3% from 'non-farm business', was however an exceptional case. For this state, contribution from 'farm business' was an exceptionally high 18% - the highest among all states. Urban Andhra Pradesh enjoyed the unique distinction of showing the highest contribution (27%) from 'non-farm business' and the second lowest (0.5%) from 'farm business' among all the states.

7. ACQUISITION AND DEPLETION OF HOUSEHOLD ASSETS DURING 1991-92

7.1.1 Till now, various aspects of household capital expenditure during 1991-92 were looked into. A related issue of interest is : to what extent were the household assets acquired or depleted during the survey period. This is looked into in the following paragraphs.

7.1.2 It may be noted that households could acquire assets by purchasing them or receiving them as gifts/ donations etc. Further, some items of assets, like financial assets and durable household goods, which had been excluded from the ambit of items on which data were collected for household gross capital expenditure, also came under the purview of such acquisition. Depletion of assets, on the other hand, could stem from disposal or loss of assets. Disposal in turn could be effected through sale or by making gifts/donations etc. Loss of assets could be due to natural calamities or other reasons such as accident, theft etc.

7.1.3 Proportion of households reporting sale / loss of assets : Table 18 shows that, at the all -India level, percentage of households reporting sale of assets (P-sale) was very low - less than 6% in rural areas and less than 2% in urban areas. The situation was almost the same for the percentage of households reporting loss (P-loss) of assets (see Table 18).

7.2 Aggregate values of household assets acquired/depleted during 1991-92

7.2.1 Table 18 presents the aggregate values of acquisition or depletion of assets for rural and urban areas separately. The table reveals that assets acquired and disposed of by rural households during 1991-92 were valued at Rs. 10,755 crores and Rs. 4,470 crores respectively. The corresponding figures for household belonging to the urban areas were Rs. 11,657 crores and Rs. 5,699 crores respectively. Thus, urban India accounted for a slightly larger share of the aggregate acquisition and disposal of assets - 52% and 56% respectively - than rural India.

7.2.2 On the other hand, rural households accounted for more than four-fifths of the aggregate assets sold or lost by all Indian households. At the aggregate level, assets sold and lost were valued at Rs 2,246 crores and Rs 873 crores respectively in rural areas and Rs 393 crores and Rs 209 crores respectively in urban areas.

7.2.3 Having taken an overview of the aggregate values of assets acquired and depleted, a probe may be made into the behaviour of their average values. This is attempted in the following paragraphs.

7.3 Average assets acquired during 1991-92

7.3.1 Asset categories : As noted earlier, cost of acquiring/purchasing certain items of assets by household was not on capital account i.e. expenses on purchase/acquisition on such items could not be traced back to gross capital expenditure by households. Such items viz. financial assets, durable household goods and transport equipments exclusively for household use, production, have been categorised as 'non-productive' assets. The remaining items of assets which were productive in nature were categorised as 'productive' assets. These items were: land other than for residential purposes, building, livestock & poultry, bunds and other land improvement, wells and other irrigation sources, agricultural machinery and transport equipment in farm business, other farm business assets and various non farm business equipment (including transport). Money spent on purchase of any item belonging to this latter category was covered under household gross capital expenditure.

7.3.2 Table 19 displays the average value of assets acquired by rural and urban households, separately for the occupational categories, for both the above stated asset categories. It reveals that while an overwhelmingly large share (80%) of the

all	935	1,851	2,786	34	66	100

which were not instrumental to further assets acquired by rural households were productive in nature, the share of such assets was only 36% for urban households. Thus, about two-thirds of the aggregate value of assets acquired by urban households during 91-92 were based on money spent by households other than for gross capital expenditure.

7.3.3 By occupation categories : While the above pattern remained true in general for both occupational groups for rural or urban India, the distribution among the asset categories varied somewhat. The percentage share of productive assets acquired was just 64 - lower by 16 percentage points - for non-cultivator households in rural areas than for all rural households. On the other hand, this percentage share was 42 - higher by 8 percentage points - for other urban households than for all urban households.

7.3.4 By asset holding categories : The pattern of the percentage share of assets acquired by asset categories could be studied for households belonging to different asset holding classes (AHC). This study is restricted to productive assets in rural and non-productive assets in urban areas. These two categories of assets account for a major share of the value of the aggregate assets acquired in rural or urban areas respectively. Table 20 shows the average value of assets acquired for productive assets only and their percentage share to all assets acquired for each AHC in rural areas whereas Table 21 does so for non-productive assets in urban areas.

7.3.5 A striking feature is readily observed from both Tables 20 and 21. The percentage share of productive assets to 'all assets' in the bottom two AHCs is much higher than the overall shares in the predominating asset category in both rural and urban areas. Thus, in urban areas, the percentage share of non-productive assets to all assets was 73 and 79 for the bottom two AHCs against the overall share of 66% for all AHCs combined. Similarly, in rural areas, the percentage share of productive assets to all assets showed highs of 92 and 88 respectively for the 'poorest' households or the two bottom AHCs.

7.3.6 While among rural households, the percentage share of productive assets varied little - except for two middle order AHCs - over AHCs, the situation was quite different for urban households. Among them, the percentage share of non-productive assets in all assets was maximum (81) in the top AHC, and significantly low for at least four of the middle order AHCs. Thus, in urban areas, the 'richest' households - along with the 'poorest' ones - displayed the common feature of acquiring more non-productive assets than done by other households .

7.4 Average assets depleted during 1991-92

7.4.1 As noted earlier, depletion of assets could occur through either disposal or loss of assets. Disposal of assets, in turn, was possible either by selling of assets or gifting/donating them away. The aggregate values of sale and loss of assets presented earlier in table 18 pertained only to the productive assets. From those figures it follows that at the aggregate level, value of sale of productive assets formed roughly

50% of all the assets disposed of in rural areas, but a low 7% of those in urban areas.

7.4.2 Having obtained a general idea of the importance of sales in the disposal of assets, it would be interesting to explore the behaviour of average amount of sales over the various AHCs. Such an exercise could also be conducted for the other component of asset disposal viz. loss of assets. The subsequent paragraphs make an attempt to probe these aspects.

7.4.3 Sale and loss of assets by AHC : Table 22 presents the average amount of sale and loss of assets by AHC for the rural and urban areas. The table reveals that while the average value of sale of productive assets increased over all but one AHC in rural areas, it decreased for three AHCs - although showing an overall increasing trend over AHCs - in urban areas. Average value of loss too, in spite of exhibiting an increasing trend over AHCs in general, in both rural and urban areas, registered a fall in two or three AHCs. However, a very sharp rise - from Rs. 31 to Rs. 265- is noticeable for this variable among the richest urban households belonging to the top AHC.

7.4.4 Sale and loss of assets for different BHEs : Having studied the behaviour of average sales and losses over AHCs for all rural and urban households, it would be interesting to take a look at the distribution of sale and loss of productive assets by their broad heads of expenditure in each of the AHCs. Tables 23 and 24 display the percentage share of sale and loss of productive assets for households under each of the three BHEs.

7.4.5 In rural areas : Table 23 reveals that among the three BHEs, 'farm business' accounted for a major portion of sale or loss of productive assets for rural households belonging to any AHC. At the aggregate level, 88% of sales and 76% of losses of rural India were accounted for by this BHE alone. While for sales the picture remained almost the same, except a middle order AHC (Rs.50 to 70 thousand), where the BHE

'residential plots and buildings' showed some significant average sales values, it was somewhat different for average loss of assets. For this variable, 'poor' households belonging to the two bottom AHCs and incurring some expenditure under 'residential plots and buildings' or under 'farm business' accounted for about 50% each of the aggregate losses made by them. Although in the next higher AHCs too, average losses under 'residential plots and buildings' were quite significant, in the two AHCs 'Rs. 70 to 100 thousand' and 'Rs. 100 to 150 thousand', the values were very low.

7.4.6 In urban areas : As seen from table 24, the scenario was quite a bit different in urban areas. At the aggregate level, about 50% and 30% of the sales of productive assets were reported by households incurring some expenditure on 'farm business' and on 'residential plots and buildings' respectively. While the value of percentage share fluctuated over the various AHCs, for the AHC 'Rs.70 to 100 thousand', it was exceptionally low (13%) for households under BHE 'farm business' but was very high (70%) for those under BHE 'residential plots and buildings'. Further, for the AHC 'Rs.20 to 30 thousand', only 28% of the sales were reported by households under BHE 'farm business' and a high 72% by those under 'residential plots and buildings'.

7.4.7 As regards loss of assets in urban areas during 91-92, the table shows that about 50% and 30% of the aggregate loss was accounted by households incurring some expenditure on 'residential plots and buildings' and on 'non-farm business' respectively. While the pattern of shares of loss of productive assets among the BHEs differed quite significantly over the AHCs, the shares for 'residential plots and buildings' were much lower - and those for 'farm business' much higher - than the overall shares stated above for as many as four successive AHCs starting from 'Rs. 50 to 70 thousand'.
